Summarizing Your Book

When you tell someone about your day, you include the important people, places, and events but leave out the little details. Similarly, a summary of a story is a brief retelling. It includes only the main characters, setting, conflict, and important events. When reading a story, you might have personal opinions, or feelings, about it. You might also make judgments about the story-whether it's believable, well-written, and so on. Although it's fine to have opinions and make judgments; don't include them in a summary. A summary is supposed to be objective, or tell only the facts.

Directions: Complete the graphic organizer after you read your book. If you are familiar with the five stages of plot, you can use them; or you can use the beginning, middle, and end column to guide your work.

	Plot	Notes
Beginning	Exposition <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Introduces the setting and the characters Sets up or hints at the conflict (problem)
Middle	Rising Action <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Shows how the conflict becomes more difficult Builds suspense
	Climax <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Is the most exciting part and a turning point
	Falling Action <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Eases the tension Shows how the main character resolves the conflict
End	Resolution <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Reveals how everything turns out Sometimes ends with a surprise twist

Main Character

What makes the characters in a story seem real? It's all in the details. Authors can describe the characters' attitudes, or how they think, act, and feel. They can also describe the characters' motivations, or the reasons for their actions. Often, a character's attitude and motivation changes during a story. As the story unfolds, readers learn more about a character based on how that person responds to events.

Directions: Complete the graphic organizer as you read to show how your character changes throughout the book.

Name of Main Character:

Beginning of Book

What the Main Character Does	Why He/She Does It	What This Shows About Him/Her
Example: Benny takes an ice cream cone from Lisa.	Example: He might think it is funny.	Example: He is not always kind; he likes to play jokes.

Middle of Book

Determining Theme

"Winning isn't everything." "Follow your heart." You've probably learned lessons like these at one time or another. Your own experience is usually the best teacher, but literature can also communicate important truths, or themes. A theme is a message about life or human nature that author wants readers to understand.

To determine a theme in your book, you must first decide on a topic. A topic is one or two words that sum up what the book is about.

Directions: Circle the topics that are related to your book.

Common Topics Found in Books

childhood	courage	death	faith
family	freedom	friendship	self-reliance
success	Growing up	hate	hope
identity	independence	justice	love
trust	truth	loyalty	nature
patience	patriotism	prejudice	race relations
Self-improvement	unhappiness	violence	war

Directions: Select two topics from the box and name a theme that relates to each. If you choose the topic of friendship, for example, you might use the theme, "Treat others as you wish to be treated." Using specific details from the text, explain how your book teaches these themes.

Topic	Theme	Details From Book
		*Use at least four sentences.
		*Use at least four sentences.

Be sure to

- name the theme.
- explain how the book teaches this theme.
- use details from the graphic organizer, Determining Theme.
- use any relevant details from your book.
- be 3 paragraphs long and include at least 15 sentences.
